In Search of a Technical Delegate

By Beth Martinec

In the world of dressage, a Technical Delegate (TD) is a necessity. They are an integral part of the running of a show, handling many responsibilities and filling many important roles. According to USEF, the TD has three roles to fill:

- The TD is the official representative of USEF on the competition grounds, ensuring all USEF rules are followed.
- The TD is an advisor to competition management.
- The TD is an advisor to competitors.

I recently went on a search to find out exactly what a TD is responsible for and what it takes to do that job. After an online search yielded a lot of technical info and not much else, I decided to go straight to the source and interview one of our local Technical Delegates, Lorre McGee.

Lorre has been a dedicated horse person since the age of 18 when she got her first horse, an Arabian. She has had Arabians all her life and her current partner is a 10 year-old Arabian gelding, MSU Slavochka, AKA "Owen", being trained to 3rd level in dressage. Lorre is having fun showing him on the Arabian Horse Circuit in dressage at 2nd Level, Sport Horse In-Hand, and has recently started on their career in Show Hack.

Lorre has been a TD for almost 8 years now. Before that, she was a C2 Steward for the breed shows for Arabians, Morgans, and Saddlebreds. She became interested in becoming a TD for several reasons. Initially, she wanted to make sure she was doing her best to help her horse succeed in dressage and that she was compliant with all the rules. She also felt strongly about "giving back" to the sport, and becoming a TD was one way she felt she could best do that. Making the sport safe and fair for both horse and competitor is very rewarding.

There are not that many TDs out there; Lorre says less than 70 nationwide. She is one of only two in the state of Arizona, sharing the position with Theresa Hunt who has her large 'R' rating.
Lorre is a small 'r' which means that Theresa has more experience and has gone through another level of training to reach the 'R' accreditation. The process to become a TD is lengthy, so it necessitates a high level of commitment to the sport and to the training requirements.

The training program requires that apprentices in the program volunteer for all areas of the show including scribing, test running, assisting in the show office, and acting as assistant show manager. Basically, TDs must train so that they understand all aspects of a show, from the timing of dragging to scheduling ride times. The USDF holds the USDF Apprentice Technical Delegate Clinic each year that serves as an introduction to the role and purpose of a dressage technical delegate. It is also a prerequisite for enrollment into the US Equestrian dressage technical delegate program. This clinic is open to all, and can help owners, riders, trainers, and competition management gain insight into how to best utilize their technical delegate as a valued competition resource.

According to USDF, to become a Technical Delegate:

- Applicants must be current Participating Members in good standing with the USDF. Applicants must have served in a position of responsibility in the past eight years, at a minimum of six Federation licensed/USDF recognized dressage competitions. This experience must be completed over a minimum of six full competition days in six or more of the following positions: At least two of these positions must be as a Manager, Assistant Manager, Secretary or Assistant Secretary. The other experiences must be from the following positions: Scribe, Scorer, Stable Manager, Ring Steward, or Volunteer Coordinator.

- The USDF Competition Management Learning Module must be completed.
- Applicants must serve a minimum of one-half day (at least three hours) as an equipment checker at two different Federation licensed/USDF recognized competitions with two different Dressage Technical Delegates ("DTDs").
- Applicants must have documented experience at three different Federation licensed/USDF recognized dressage competitions as a competitor, trainer, coach, groom, or owner. Applicants must provide detailed self-documentation for any information that is not easily verified.
- Applicants must attend a USDF Apprentice TD Clinic.

Lorre says that there is also a continuing education component that she must complete to maintain her license. First, she must officiate at three licensed competitions each year. Every three years she must attend a training clinic that used to be held at the yearly convention but is now available as online training. Every three years, Lorre must renew her certification and get tested in measuring ponies. There are also three topic-based modules that must be completed each year on various subjects. They can cover a variety of things like, blood in the mouth, electronic scoreboards, or dealing with difficult competitors. Lastly, there is an annual online "New Rules and Equipment" module and quiz that must be passed with a score of 85% or higher.

Being a voice for the horse to safeguard its welfare is one of the things Lorre says she likes best about being a TD. She also finds it very rewarding to know that people recognize her as she walks the barns and feel comfortable coming to her with questions that they have about the rules. She also really enjoys reading all the rules and keeping her knowledge of them up to date.

Her least favorite things about the position are having to have a discussion with someone when she doesn't like what they are doing or having to head off a problem before it starts.

Lorre's advice for anyone interested in becoming a TD is to start by talking with other TDs to find out what they like/dislike about the position, learn their backgrounds, and talk more about all the training requirements and commitments. She also recommends reading all the rules and going online to USDF and USEF to take advantage of all the job aids they have available there.

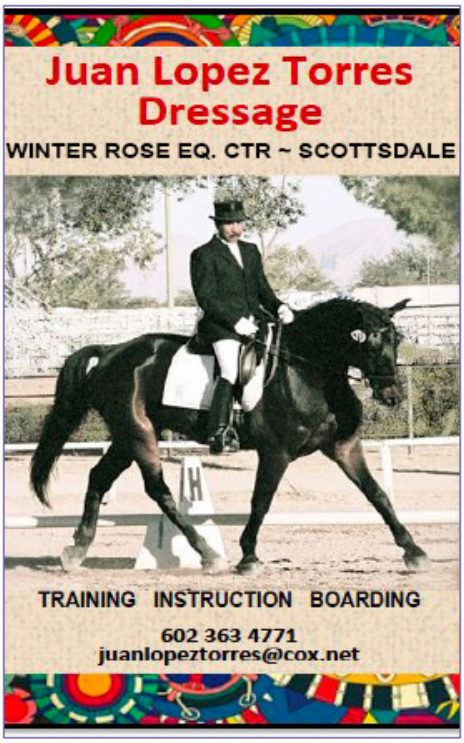

Lorre loves her position as a TD and thinks that more people should get into it as a way to stay connected and involved in the sport we all love. If you are interested in learning more, just look for that familiar hat at the next show - Lorre would love to share her insight with you!

Barn News:

As of February 1st Juan Lopez Torres and Julie Sodowsky will be conducting our dressage lessons and training at the spacious Pinnacle Peak Equestrian Center.
Our training barn has 12' x14' size stalls with runs and nearby are spacious turnout areas. In close proximity is our private dressage court with mirrors.
There is also an 85' x 200' covered arena and large cross country jump area around which is a track for hacking out.
We are excited to be back at a facility where we have spent so many years in the past…It's going to feel like home!

DO YOU HAVE TROUBLE KEEPING YOUR HANDS QUIET WHILE YOU RIDE? TRY THESE TWO TIPS:

1. Imagine that the reins are heavy and that the weight of them is so great that they pull your hands down as the motion of the horse carries them along.
2. Imagine that your arms are wooden slats that are held together loosely with a nail at the elbows and shoulders. Your shoulders can only hang down loosely and swing back and forth and your elbows can only swing open and closed as the heavy reins pull on them.

Arizona Dressage Association is a 501(c)(3) not-for-profit organization

Each Horse & Rider combination is a $10.00 nomination fee.

1. Both the Rider and Horse Owner be current ADA members and have paid the $10.00 fee before the start of a show for scores to count toward the year end awards.
2. Each horse/rider/level combination must ride in TWO or more shows and compete in at least TWO classes at each show to have their scores count.
3. Riders may compete in two adjacent levels on the same horse, but the horse must be nominated at each level to be scored toward Year End Awards.
4. Riders may compete on more than one horse, but each horse/rider/level combination must be nominated.
5. A horse may be shown by up to two competitors, but each horse/rider/level combination must be nominated.
6. All scores for Year End Awards are tabulated using the HIGHEST PERCENTAGE SCORE earned by each horse/rider/level combination throughout the show year at each level and in each division.
7. It is the rider's responsibility to notify the ADA Second Vice President of any changes that affect year-end award status.
8. Awards will go to the top four Junior, Adult Amateur and Open Horse/Rider combination at Introductory through Grand Prix Levels.
9. Champion may not be won more than two times by the same horse & rider combination at the same level.

Award year is from December (current year) through November (following year)*
